GENERAL NEWS.

Blaine's Movements the Subject of Interesting Comment.

ONE OF LOUISIANA'S PASTIMES.

The Steamship Queen of the Pacific Turned Over to the O. R. & N. Co. by the Builders.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

CINCINNATI, May 25.—Jas. G. Blaine, with Senator Henry G. Davis, both said to be interested in the projected Baltimore, Cincinnati and Western railway, are expected here in the morning, as guests of Governor Foster. Hon. Thos. L. Young, who is interested in the last named road, is here.

AUGUSTA, ME., May 25.—It may be stated on the best of authority the statements about the collapse of the "Blaine boom," which have obtained such wide circulation, are without the semblance of accuracy. Blaine has not yet stated whether he will accept an invitation to head the congressional ticket, and while it is not impossible he will be returned, it is by no means true his declination will be the result of any considerable opposition to his candidacy. The statement that petitions asking him to stand have been refused signature by Collector Lot Morrill, of Portland, and General Joshua L. Chamberlain, is incorrect, inasmuch as neither gentleman has had an opportunity to decline signing, nor is it true signatures have been erased from petitions. In an open state convention to-morrow there would not be more than fifty anti-Blaine votes. Blaine, whether a candidate or not, will take lead of the campaign in person.

A Reign of Terror in Louisiana.

NEW YORK, May 25.—A Telegram special from Baton Rouge says: A reign of terror exists in St. Martin's parish over the lynching of Joseph L. Jenkins and Eugene Azar (negro) on the 16th inst. Bands of armed negroes are going about in St. Martinsville swearing vengeance, and a war of races is dreaded. Sixteen of the lynchers have been arrested and are now in the parish jail. The lynching of the two men was particularly atrocious. Jenkins' hands were not tied, and when he grasped the rope the lynchers broke both of his arms. His wife, who was among the spectators, also earnestly begged for his life. He had a week previously waylaid his brother-in-law, Raphael Castille, near Breaux's bridge, and shot and killed him. Azar had been arrested some time previous for killing a young man at Vallery, Thibideaux county, but at the inquest the killing appeared to be in self-defense, and he was let out on $500 bail.

A Serious Outlook.

PITTSBURG, May 25.—Prospects of an amicable settlement between iron workers and manufacturers are growing smaller as the date approaches for the strike. The amalgamated association assert a determination to stand out for a year unless an advance is conceded, and are making systematic arrangements for a long strike. In case the grocers decline to sell on time to members of the association during the lockout, they will start three large stores in this city and Allegheny, from which groceries, dry goods, etc., will be dealt out to strikers. On the other hand manufacturers are equally firm in the stand they have taken. This afternoon the latter held a meeting to consider the labor question. Every manufacturer in the city was present, and every section of the west, save St. Louis, represented. It was unanimously resolved to resist any advance.

Railroad Matters.

OMAHA, May 25.—The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy route, connecting Chicago and Denver, was completed yesterday afternoon. The first train into Denver was that of Superintendent Holdredge, of the Nebraska division. Superintendent Holdredge drove the last spike at 4 P. M., and went on to Denver, distant 11 miles from the junction of the two ends of the track. The distance from Chicago to Denver is 1041 miles. Through freight trains begin running at once and passenger trains begin July 1st.

Dispatches received at the headquarters of the Burlington company this evening, announcing the completion of the Denver extension at 4 P. M., stated that on Wednesday three miles and 300 feet of track were laid, spiked and lined in nine hours. There are rumors here that the completion of the Denver line may be followed by a brisk cutting on [illegible] business.

CHICAGO, May 25.—At a meeting of the Chicago and Omaha lines to-day it was agreed to pool all business destined to junction points of the Union Pacific, Burlington & Missouri and Blair roads. This action was made necessary because of the [illegible] balance on rates to Lincoln and other large points in the interior of Nebraska.

The government commission of inquiry into encroachments of the Illinois Central Railroad Company on the outer harbor, met and began hearing of testimony to-day.

Smelting Works Burned.

[illegible], COL., May 25.—Early this morning the [illegible] company's smelting works were completely destroyed by fire. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been caused by an explosion in the furnace. Loss estimated between $300,000 and $400,000; insurance $50,000. These works were the largest of the kind in the world. Over 200 men are thrown out of employment here, and quite a number at Omaha, where the refining works of this company are located. The works will be rebuilt.

Chicago Musical Festival.

CHICAGO, May 25.—The second matinee of the May musical festival drew out 8000 people. It was largely given to orchestra, which played seven numbers. [illegible] again bore off the vocal honors. Cary [illegible] unable to appear. 8500 people were present [illegible] evening. Bach's cantata Festo Ascensionis [illegible] was the principal feature. The first part of the programme was the last half of Beethoven's symphony in D minor, which was grandly rendered.

A Journalist Honored.

NEW YORK, May 24.—James C. Hueston, general agent of the New York associated press, has received through the department of state from the German government the medal for saving persons from imminent danger. Mr. Hueston received it for rescuing Theresa Euke from death by drowning, while he was sojourning at Ems, Germany. The medal has on one side a wreath surrounding the words "Errettung Aus Gefahr," and on the reverse side is a head of Emperor William.

Transfer of the Queen of the Pacific.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The new iron steamship Queen of the Pacific, which started on an ocean trial trip, returned to Philadelphia Tuesday night, and was transferred by Cramp to the Oregon Railway and Navigation company. She will take in steel rails and other railroad material for this company.

Criminal Notes.

GALVESTON, May 24.—Bolton special: Sunday morning early a hundred masked men took from jail Sam Hilton, white, and James Keyes, colored, and hanged them. Both were charged with a murderous assault on a deputy sheriff.

ST. PAUL, May 24.—An Indian territory special says: Moses Sills, a notorious ruffian and murderer, was riddled with bullets by Sheriff Taylor at Fort Smith. Sills was drunk and quarrelsome and resisted, making a desperate fight. He is credited with killing five men and being accessory to many murders.

Jesse James' Widow.

KANSAS CITY, May 25.—The widow of Jesse James is keeping house here. She has signed a contract to furnish facts for a lecture on the adventures of the bandit, and to sit on the stage with two children while it is being delivered. She is realizing considerable money by the sale of pictures of her husband and little ones, a boy aged 7 and girl of 5 years.

Killed by Accident.

[illegible], COL., May 25.—While Alderman A. T. Steward was examining a rifle to-day the weapon was accidentally discharged, the ball passing through the partition and entering the heart of the alderman's brother Edward, killing him instantly. The coroner's jury found a verdict of accidental shooting.

Small but Select.

WILMINGTON, DEL., May 22.—The greenback state convention of five delegates, all from Sussex county, met to-day. John Jackson of Hockessin was nominated for governor and J. Albert Whittier, editor of the Newcastle Star, for congressman.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Parliamentary Proceedings.

LONDON, May 25.—In commons, Trevelyan, chief secretary for Ireland, admitted the government sent simultaneously messages of conciliation and coercion, but pointed out that messages were not sent to the same address. Earl Spencer had determined that all cases of interference with huts for shelter of evicted persons should be submitted to land courts, before the police were allowed to intervene. [illegible] Lord said he would not sit in any court under the bill, [cheers by Irish members] as the powers of the act would be exercised by special magistrates. The powers granted in regard to public meetings, would only be exercised where the feelings were part of the machinery of violence and disorder.

Gowens made an amendment declaring that while the house is desirous of aiding the government in detection of crime, it disapproves of restrictions upon the free expression of public opinion in Ireland; rejected, 314 to 47.

House then went formally into committee on the bill.

The Egyptian Crisis.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 26.—In reply to the protest of Turkey against the presence of English and French squadrons at Alexandria, England and France inform the porte that the vessels will leave as soon as a durable normal state of things is re-established.

Foreign Notes.

A report has reached Berlin of a terrible conflagration in Kiev. The flames have been raging since Tuesday.

At London wool sales yesterday, 11,700 bales were disposed of, comprising Sidney, Port Phillip and Adelaide.

Mr. Wm. J. Smyth resides at No. 1702 N. Seventh Street, Philadelphia, Pa., and is well known in journalistic circles. He writes: I had an attack of rheumatism in both of my knee joints, and for several days I was almost crazed with the intense pain caused by the disease. To sleep was out of the question. I would lie in bed all night awake, and the slightest motion would produce such sharp pains [illegible] to come down stairs one step at a time, and it was difficult for me even to limp about the house, and I found it impossible to [illegible] my business. Nothing I could do relieved me of this intense pain, although I tried everything I heard of; but a friend came in one day, and said, "Why don't you give that St. Jacobs Oil a trial?" I resolved to, and sent out for a bottle. Almost as soon as I commenced rubbing with the Oil I felt a slight relief, and [illegible] tingling sensation in my knees, and the more I rubbed the better I got. [illegible] one bottle I felt much better, that I could walk without difficulty, and I can truly say [illegible] that by the time I had consumed two bottles I was entirely cured, and now have not a twinge of rheumatism and have not been troubled with it. I finished up that second bottle of St. Jacobs Oil.

THE PACIFIC COAST.

CALIFORNIA.

A Heavy Suit.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—Ellen M. Colton, [illegible] D. D. Colton, deceased, has brought suit against [illegible] and Stanford, [illegible] Charles Crocker and Wells, Fargo & Co. [illegible] aside a certain agreement made on the 27th of August, 1879, whereby Mrs. Colton agreed to assign to defendants as executrix of the deceased, certain stocks and bonds of several railroad and steamship corporations of the aggregate estimated value of $1,725,718 [illegible] alleges that she made the assignment through mistake of the actual value of bonds and stocks, that the consideration for such assignment was that defendants would cancel a promissory note for [illegible] made by deceased, and that they would pay certain other debts. Plaintiff asks for the [illegible] between the value of stocks and bonds and judgment against defendants for dividends and interest on the same now due the estate.

San Francisco Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—In the U. S. circuit court to-day Judge Sawyer discharged from custody seven Chinese women, who came from Hongkong on the steamer Gaelic Castle. The women were arrested for violation of the law which prohibits the importation of females for immoral purposes. Judge Sawyer discharged them on the ground that there was no evidence produced to show that the women are prostitutes, or imported for the purpose of prostitution.

An assessment has been levied by the Belle Isle Mining Company of 10 cents a share.

Sam'l G. Hilbourne, of Vallejo, is expected to be appointed U. S. district attorney for California next month. Senator Miller has filed Hilbourne's papers at the department of justice, and recommended the appointment.

Two more cases of smallpox were reported on the steamer Altonower yesterday, both white, a ship carpenter and seaman. Both were taken to the hospital. No cases are reported yet on the steamer Strathairly.

Stage Robbery.

CHICO, May 25.—W. N. Messer's stage, driven by Ed Nelson, was stopped and robbed by three highwaymen at Deadman's hill, about 12 miles from Chico, this morning,—two men and a boy, armed with rifles and pistols. They took Nelson's watch and chain, and got $17 from the passengers. The stage contained Mrs. W. N. Messer, two men and the driver. The robbers were all masked and no clue to their identity has been obtained.

Verdict Returned.

WOODLAND, May 25.—The second trial of James Smith, alias "Dode" Smith, for the murder of M. F. Patterson, was concluded to-day, the jury returning a verdict of murder in the 2d degree—the same as the first verdict.

ARIZONA.

An Indian's Complaint.

FORT THOMAS, May 25.—Eskelteschew, chief of the Coyotero Apaches, has visited Col. Albert G. Brackett, of the 3d cavalry, commanding the post, and states he wishes the government to allow his people to go back and live at their old home in the White mountains, where there is plenty of grass and water for stock raising and where they can farm. He complains that the sub-agency is unhealthy and the land unproductive, and no water can be had there for farming purposes. All they desire is to be permitted to go where they can make a living, and if they are allowed to return they will not ask the government for assistance of any kind, as they can support themselves. He also stated he wished the military to protect them from Americans, Mexicans and hostile Indians. Referring to the cause of the Chiricahua outbreak, he said it was caused by Agent Tiffany not assisting them to make water ditches to irrigate land. Two of the chiefs, [illegible] and Nalclise, went on two different occasions to Tiffany, begging for this assistance in getting out ditches, and Tiffany would not give them any satisfaction whatever. This chief stated he represented 15 chiefs of different bands of Apaches, who had sent him with this message, and hence he spoke by authority.

Fire at Tombstone.

TOMBSTONE, May 25.—Fire broke out in the rear of Tivoli garden, on Allen street, yesterday about half past 3 o'clock and immediately communicated to surrounding structures. The grand hotel and magnificent rooms of the Tombstone Club adjoined, and were immediately enveloped in flames. The fire spread rapidly and soon the entire block between Toughnut and Allen streets and Third and Fourth streets was in flames. The fire department fought the flames like heroes, but it was evident from the first that the heart of the city was doomed. The flames spread across Allen street and destroyed the entire block to Fremont, and again crossed Fourth street, destroying the block bounded by Allen and Fremont, Third and Fourth streets. Here the flames were conquered through the combined aid of firemen, police and deputies under command of Sheriff Behan. The portion of the city destroyed comprised the principal hotels, the Grand, Cosmopolitan and Brown's, and the Nugget newspaper office. The Western Union telegraph office was among the first to hug the flames, but the manager, C. E. Donnelly, at the risk of his life, saved the records and instruments, and had established another office in a distant quarter within an hour. It is impossible at present to estimate the loss, perhaps $500,000 will cover it; but it certainly will not be less. The Epitaph office suffered a loss of something less than $1000. Insurance will foot up about $250,000, but the loss will certainly be double that. It will not affect the town, as most of the property destroyed was owned by solid business men, who will immediately rebuild.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Seattle Notes.

SEATTLE, May 25.—The house of D. N. Taylor, a farmer, living 20 miles back of the city, was destroyed by fire last Tuesday with its contents. Loss $1,500; no insurance.

Decoration Day will be observed in grand style in this city.

The exercises of the commencement day at the territorial university were most interesting. There were seven graduates. The address of Judge Greene was a fine effort and was listened to with profound attention.

Sale of the Yaquina.

SEATTLE, W. T., May 25.—The steamer Yaquina burned at Portland yesterday, was bought last Tuesday by John Leary, of this city, for $3[illegible],000, and was to have been delivered on the 1st of June. Leary has a half interest in the Alaska mail contract, and the Yaquina was intended by him for that service. If the boat can be put in as good condition as before, or better, she will be taken as at first contemplated, but if not another will be obtained.

The assessment of this (King) county for 1882 foots up $4,451,845, or $1,635,3[illegible] in excess of the assessment of 1881.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Astoria Notes.

ASTORIA, May 26.—The salmon run is still light, fifteen to the boat being a good average at Wm. Hume's cannery this morning.

Two coroner's inquests were held to-day. Martin Johansen, a Norwegian fisherman for Booth & Co., fell dead in his boat at 3 o'clock this morning. He was a remarkably fine, robust, well built young man of about 28. The other was Julius Tordiel, who jumped from a sloop to save another young man who had fallen overboard. Both were drowned. The two were strangers and had recently arrived here and accepted a job to burn charcoal on Lewis and Clarke river.

A carpenter shipped by Furlong, a boarding master of Portland, on the American ship Ivy was arrested to-day and imprisoned on complaint of Mrs. Bridget Grant for default. Capt. Lowell paid $180 for the man and claims it was a put up job of Furlong's.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Victoria Notes.

VICTORIA, May 25.—The 63d anniversary of her majesty's birthday was observed as a general holiday. All places of business were closed and buildings and shipping were gaily decked with flags. H. M. S. Rocket and U. S. revenue cutter Oliver Wolcott were anchored in the harbor. The cutter fired a royal salute. The great feature of the occasion was the regatta, which was in every respect a success, the day being beautiful and the number of visitors large. About 2000 people from Puget Sound took part in the demonstration.

THE TURF.

Epsom Races.

LONDON, May 25.—The Epsom grand prize was won by Quicklime, Marden second, Lucknow third. Seven started in running order.

A PERTINENT INQUIRY.

PORTLAND, May 25.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I have heard it reported that L. B. Stearns, republican candidate for county judge, [illegible]

[illegible] twenty-two [illegible] to accept it as a regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.—Stanford.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Mackey's Opinion.

[illegible] will be at least 20 more republicans in the next house from the south.

Rumors of War.

There are rumors to-night of trouble in the house to-morrow on the point of order made to-day by McCord and withdrawn, that quorum consideration could not be raised against a contested election case. The speaker was seen in frequent consultation with prominent republicans, and he had written a statement that was averred to be the decision on some such point of order as was raised by the Iowa member. Mr. Miller, of the elections committee, understood the point to be based on constitutional power vested in the house to judge of the qualification and election of its members, and the house for such purpose consisted of a quorum of its members. The question of the right of a member to his seat was of the highest privilege, and no rule of the house could be exercised by the minority to prevent a quorum from performing its constitutional right, and should the speaker sustain the ruling he would refuse to entertain any dilatory motions from democratic congressmen. Carlisle (dem) said there was a long line of precedents to sustain the rights of any member to raise a question of consideration against an election case, and that a member had not the right to move to adjourn, would be to brand its author a fool. If the speaker should rule that the question of consideration could not be raised, an appeal would be made, and a filibustering resumed on the appeal. This morning a list of two squads of democrats was made out, one going to relieve the other at intervals in the filibustering, to allow time for rest. Randall, Carlisle, Blackburn and Kenner were assigned as lobbyists, and Messrs. Emmentrout and Clark as whippers in.

The Correct View.

Senator Miller's joint resolution authorizing the president to declare martial law in Alaska has been considered by the judiciary committee and will be reported adversely. The committee was of opinion that the evidence presented of disturbances in and around Harrisburg was insufficient to warrant declaration of martial law. The evidence was purely ex parte and of hearsay character. As there are no civil officials in the territory competent to make report upon disturbances, the committee feel that it will be useless to place reliance upon the statements of outsiders. The existence of trouble dangerous to the peace of Alaska has directed the attention of congress to the necessity for taking action of some sort in relation to affairs in the territory, and a bill will be reported from the judiciary committee, or one of the pending bills be amended and passed, providing for establishment of a territorial government in Alaska. Commander Pierson, of the Wachusett, has been ordered to [illegible] to proceed to the scene of trouble and exert his influence to stop the fighting.

Washington Notes.

Wm. Brockway and [illegible] Smith have been indicted for having abstracted bond plates from the vaults of the bureau of engraving and printing.

Ex-Secretary Hunt, minister to Russia, and family left Thursday for Pittsburg.

The grand jury is investigating the star route service for which J. B. Price is contractor, and to-day examined T. N. Devine.

Secretary Lincoln has information that Payne and 29 other colonists, while attempting to invade Indian territory, were captured by troops and sent out from Fort Reno and taken back to Kansas. The authorities have not decided what disposition to make of them.

The Star says it is reported that five of the nine tariff commissioners have been agreed upon, viz: Ex-Vice President Wheeler, Alex. Mitchell, of Wisconsin, a former democratic representative in congress and now president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad; Jno. L. Hayes, of Massachusetts, formerly president of the National Wool Association; Henry W. Oliver, of Pittsburg, a leading iron manufacturer, and R. P. Porter, formerly in charge of the statistical bureau of the census office.

Emile Christian Grieser, resident consul for Belgium, died here to-day.

The Garfield Monument.

A committee of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland having in charge the raising of funds for the erection of a monument at Washington to the memory of Gen. Garfield, publishes a card of thanks to the president of the United States for the alacrity and unanimity with which he has accepted the trust of becoming depositor of contributions of Decoration Day. The card adds: "If the people respond with but a proportionate tithe of your kind enthusiasm we shall be enabled to erect such a pile as shall rightly honor the glorious name of Garfield. May 30, 1882, will be memorable as the day on which a great people united to perpetuate the memory of a revered president, who died at the post of duty, where he had been stationed at their command."

Murray Brothers, on the south fork of John Day river, now employ sixteen men to attend to their stock. They aim to gather and sell all their cattle this season, and keep sheep alone hereafter. They now have about 10,000 head of the latter.

The attention of farm grangers and land hunters is being turned to the remaining fine agricultural and grazing lands lying in Washington territory, just across the Columbia from Umatilla. A good many thousand acres have been taken up opposite Umatilla.

Only four patents have been issued for mining claims in Grant county. One is for a quartz ledge and the others for placer claims. A patent for the Worcester quartz ledge was granted to Horace W. [illegible]; one to a placer near Prairie City was granted to James E. Weaver; near Marysville, to Hillis & Co., and one near Canyon City to John Long. The trouble and expense that have to be incurred in procuring U. S. patents to mining ground prevent many from obtaining that kind of title.

Baker Tribune: A serious accident occurred at the Rye Valley mine on Tuesday, occasioned by the caving of a bank, by which John Carney, a miner, had both bones of the right leg broken. It was nearly a half hour after the caving of the bank before the fellow workmen discovered his situation. He was carefully placed in a buggy and brought to Baker City, a distance of 35 miles. The broken limb was set and the patient will probably be all right again in the course of a few weeks.

Everybody in the John Day country is now busy gathering cattle and horses, shearing sheep, etc. Cattle buyers are getting their herds together preparatory to the long drive over the mountains to the eastern markets. Nearly all the cattle on the John Day and its tributaries will be driven out of the country this spring. Most of them go east but a few will be driven to the southern part of the county and will eventually find their way to San Francisco. Sheep shearing has been retarded by the cold storms of the first of the week, but will now proceed without further interruption. The [illegible] is good, considering the extraordinary hard winter passed through.

J. W. Jack, school superintendent for Grant county, submits his annual report as follows: "The schools in this county are doing as well as circumstances admit. Many districts are so large in territory and small in population, many of the children having to go ten or fifteen miles to school and many more too far off to reach the school at all, that the schools are small and have but one term of three months held during the year. But the people take as much interest in schools as any and keep them up as well as they can. No county in the state has its schools better provided with apparatus than this, and none pays higher average salaries to teachers. And no other county is so badly situated for business and intercommunication as this. Harney valley citizens have to go seventy miles to [illegible] for their mail; Harney neighborhood, Silver creek forty, and Happy valley fifty. Beaver is eighty miles from the nearest office. Mail routes ought to be established for the benefit of these people, who are as loyal, as intelligent and as deserving of the patronage of the government as any other section of our state anywhere."

Crops in the vicinity of Viola, Clackamas county, look extremely promising.

A number of twine binders have lately been purchased by Dutch creek farmers.

The wild strawberry crop promises to be an immense one in the vicinity of Silverton.

Memorial services in honor of the late David Newsome will be held on Howell prairie next Sunday.

The canvass is getting warm in Yamhill county, with fair prospects for the election of the republican ticket.

Young Woolworth, of Howell prairie, has secured a contract for furnishing the O. & C. R. R., 25,000 feet of [illegible] along the Umpqua valley.

The Oregon state grange has held its 12th annual session at Salem this week. The attendance was large, members being present from all parts of Oregon and Washington.

Rev. P. S. Knight has bought the residence of Werner Breyman in Salem, and will remove the same to his property on Piety hill. Mr. Breyman will build an elegant residence on the old site this summer.

The corner stone of McMinnville college building will be laid on the 31st of May with appropriate ceremonies. The corner stone will be placed by Hon. W. Cary Johnson, of Oregon City; the oration will be delivered by Hon. J. N. Dolph, of Portland, and in the evening Rev. John A. Gray, of Portland, will deliver an educational address. Music will be furnished by the McMinnville brass band and the Glee Club.

Salem Statesman: The capitalists who propose to rebuild the woolen mills on the old site in North Salem, provided the people will give them a bonus, only ask that the people bind themselves to pay the sum of $15,000, and they will bind themselves in any way the people desire them to. The consideration, or no part thereof will be asked for by the company until the building is constructed and the machinery placed therein, ready for work. The subscription paper will be circulated in a day or two, and as soon as the $15,000 is subscribed the work on the building will be commenced.

Albert W. Anderson, who has a place on Lewis and Clarke's [illegible] found [illegible] the skeleton of a white man; the bones crumbled to pieces, except the skull, which was [illegible]. The skeleton was six inches below the surface when found.

An extensive quarry of limestone has been discovered near [illegible]'s sawmill on the Skagit. The ledge is about 600 yards from the river bank and is easy of access. It has been traced for a distance of 1400 feet along the hillside, and samples burned have been pronounced to be of superior quality. In the same vicinity is also located the famous Skagit river coal and iron deposits.

Seven hundred acres of land on Salmon bay, known as the Crooks farm, was sold last week to Messrs. James Crawford and John Leary for $12,600. This farm comprises some very fine land, and is now in the hands of men who will put it to some use. It will probably be divided into small tracts and rented or sold to thrifty farmers who want 25 or 30 acres of choice land near the city, all cleared and ready for cultivation.

THE CHRISTIANCY DIVORCE SUIT.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—In the Christiancy divorce suit [illegible] testimony [illegible] the case. [illegible] letters have been put in evidence, among them a letter written by Christiancy the 11th of August, 1879, to his wife's father, W. L. [illegible], with regard to Mrs. Christiancy's [illegible]. It begins with reference to correspondence between himself and Mrs. Lugenbeel before their marriage, a correspondence in which Christiancy says he endeavored carefully and scrupulously to convince her she ought not to marry him, and in which he [illegible] many times she should reconsider the matter. He admitted he loved her, and said if after mature consideration she still wished to marry him, he would consent. He declared she still wished him to make her his wife. As a gentleman he had only one course to take. The marriage took place, and if the love which she professed for him had really existed, nothing, he says, could have made him happier. On the morning of the wedding, however, she heard of the return of James Lugenbeel and fainted. When they reached Philadelphia and were alone she told him she had been engaged to Lugenbeel, and that the engagement had been broken, and she did not know how deeply she loved him until his name was mentioned. She said she had perjured herself in her marriage vows and was miserable, and wanted a divorce forthwith. When they returned to this city all went well, until she met Lugenbeel in the art gallery, and from that time she seemed dejected and desperate, and again asked for a divorce. Soon after this Frank Anderson became attentive to her, and her affections seemed to attach themselves alternately to him and Lugenbeel, and again came the frenzy for a divorce. Finally she quieted down and appeared to think more of her husband. After she returned in August, 1879, her love for Anderson broke out afresh, and her hatred for her husband increased. She also had a fondness for Sam. Register of Baltimore, and for one Mayer. She afterwards declared she wished her husband dead, and said he was all that stood between her and happiness. Christiancy then refers to the act of his wife in going to the Healing Springs in preference to going to Saratoga or Kansas with him, and says he felt suspicious she had gone to the springs with some old lover; and when she wrote him she taunted him with being old, and did not pretend to love him. She said she would not live with him, and that she would spend all the money she pleased; that she would run him in debt, and that she wanted a divorce. The husband replied that he could not quarrel with her, nor would he be ruined in the way she proposed.

Seattle Chronicle: Newcastle is distinctively a mining center, with a population of between 400 and 500. Its people are, as a rule, intelligent and industrious, and its streets present a most thrifty and business like aspect. The mine is the property of the Oregon Improvement Co., and is the largest coal mining establishment of the kind on the coast. Its capacity is 31,000 tons of excellent lignite coal per month, that amount having been produced during March of the present year. There are now employed in the mine, and about the surrounding works, something over 200 men, and the monthly disbursement of funds by the company, for the payment of wages and other expenses, is on an average, somewhere between $30,000 and $35,000. The latest novelty in the way of improvements is the electric light. The celebrated Weston Dynamo machine is used, and [illegible] of its lamps are attached. The whole thing is a great success, being said to produce the finest light of any similar outfit north of San Francisco. This outfit was put up at an expense of between [illegible] and $2000.

"THE OVAL CAKE"
Is revolutionizing the Soap Trade. Housekeepers who once try it never again go back to the wasteful, adulterated and incompletely pressed styles heretofore in use. The advantages of
Colgate & Co's "Oval" Soap
Over all other Laundry Soaps are:
1st. It is the only Soap molded by STEAM pressure, and consequently contains more soap and less water to the pound than the old style hand-pressed soaps.
2d. The Oval Cake does not, like the other styles, wash away in using to a thin piece, which crumbles and is wasted, but it wears down to a thick lump, which you can stick a fork into and use entirely up.
3d. It contains no adulteration whatever.
4th. It is the handsomest, most convenient to handle, most economical, and (considering its superior quality) the cheapest Washing Soap ever made. m25d&w

SPEAKER SHARPE INTERVIEWED.

He relates several Interesting Reminiscences Concerning Conkling's Struggle.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

CINCINNATI, May 26.—Commercial's Albany: Ex-Speaker George B. Sharpe was questioned by several friends in relation to Conkling's comments in the New York Herald on the senatorial struggle.

Did you inspire the article in the Kingston Freeman which drew out this statement of Conkling's? he was asked.

I did not, replied the ex-speaker. I had no knowledge of its existence until it was in print. The article appeared in the Freeman of Friday last. I was here at the time and did not return to Kingston until Sunday, but I had no connection with the article whatever. Mr. Marseilles, editor of the paper, is responsible for it, and I think he knows how to take care of himself. You know how the Freeman was one of three or four stalwart papers that advocated Conkling's re-election. Marseilles was here a great deal during that struggle, and has a good personal knowledge of the subject.

A year ago it was reported and the statement has frequently been repeated since, that at a conference of stalwarts of New York in May, previous to the election, you made a speech in which you earnestly urged Conkling to go to Albany to seek a re-election.

I never made such a speech. It is a falsehood.

Did you advise Conkling to go to Albany and seek re-election?

No.

Did Mr. Conkling give the names of the men who advised him to go to Albany? I should like to know their names.

I don't know who they were, and yet I think I would have known if any one knew them. Let Conkling disclose the names of these men and expose them to the shame of having given him such advice.

Whom did he consult in Washington before resigning his place as U. S. senator? Did he consult any of his friends here or in this state?

He never consulted them. He went back on them and now seeks to put his defeat for re-election on their shoulders.

THE INDEPENDENT ADDRESS.

We publish to-day the address prepared by the independent republican committee of Multnomah county. It is a strongly written document. As an arraignment of machine methods, and of the boss system, its utterances are entitled to respect, as they will undoubtedly challenge attention. But in its practical application to the present situation it seems to us that the address is overdrawn, and that the action taken under it is inconsistent with itself. We find no fault, of course, with those who elect to take independent political action. Nor do we pretend that there is no "bossism" in this county. It is always here. Yet it is no more conspicuous now than it has been for ten years past. It is even less so. No one needs to be told that the movements of both parties in Multnomah are directed by a comparatively small number of men in each. For many years this has been regularly pointed out by this journal; yet often when the nominations have been far more objectionable than any now are, it has been unable to get any efficient help against them. A marked difference is presented between the general situation at the present time and that of several former occasions; and to this difference we would respectfully call the attention of the authors of this address. As a rule, throughout the state, the republicans have repudiated machine methods. The professional politicians have succeeded in controlling the nominations only to a very limited extent. By the character of the nominations for the legislature in most of the counties entire assurance is afforded that that body will be controlled by men who do not acknowledge the mastery of "bosses," nor subordinate their judgment to the rule of "the machine." It is entirely certain that the professional managers of politics will fail to control a legislature composed of such material. Were it otherwise this journal would be doing its utmost to elect members of another sort, not only in this county but in all the counties. We take it that the authors of this address, and those for whom they speak, are not dissatisfied with the nomination of Mr. Moody, since they have placed his name on their ticket. They also express their approval of Mr. George, Mr. Earhart and Judge Lord. Now we cannot suppose that Mr. Hirsch, the only candidate on the republican ticket whom they have declined to approve, is in any degree more a machine man or a machine candidate than the others. All these nominations are the fruit of the same convention and to no small extent of the same combinations. Again, some of the republican candidates on the county ticket are dropped, and names on the democratic ticket substituted. If this action were based on judgment as to the personal fitness of particular candidates, we should not utter a word of criticism. But it appears to be founded on the notion that some of the republican candidates for the legislature and for the county offices are machine men, while others are not. The authors of the address will pardon us, we trust, when we say that there appears to be an inconsistency in this assumption. If the situation throughout the state were such as to render it necessary to defeat the republican party in order to break down the machine, their position would be intelligible. But even then the effort ought to be founded on better logic than is presented in this partial selection. The independents of Multnomah county have endorsed all the candidates on the republican state ticket save one; hence we infer they do not regard that ticket as containing much of the machine element. Is it worth while to put the effort against machine methods on so narrow and illogical a basis? Again, is it worth while to strike at certain candidates on the legislative ticket while accepting others on the same ticket, when it is clear in the first place that the rejected ones do not belong to the machine more than the accepted ones, and when it is moreover manifest to all who have looked at the nominations in the various counties that there will be more independence in the legislature and less subservience to the machine than at any former time for a dozen years? No boss, nor machine man, will be sent to the senate by a legislature composed of such men as the republicans have nominated throughout the state. The democratic organs, which are partisan if not wholly partisan, at one time declare that the "true republicans," as they call the old machine managers, have been badly treated, that their rightful power has been wrested from them, and that they ought to leave the party to its fate; and at another time they assert that the machine is in full control of the party and that the independents ought to help defeat it. These statements are [illegible] intended for the advantage of the democratic party. The fact is patent to all well-informed persons that if the republicans obtain a majority in the legislature the machine cannot control that majority. It has had less to do with the nominations this year than at any time for many years past. In many counties it has been distinctly beaten on this issue; so that now, if the republicans carry a majority in the legislature there is more certainty of the election of a senator who will represent the people than there has been for a great while. If THE OREGONIAN were not firm in this conviction, it would pursue a very different course in the present contest. If the democrats win the legislature the result will simply be a triumph of the Grover ring. We must confess that we see small prospect of "reform" as a result of this kind. For these reasons we must say that we do not regard this address as applicable to the present situation, however fully we agree with the general principles set forth in it. The case is different from that in Pennsylvania, because there the machine is in full power, while in Oregon, as every one perceives who has looked into the subject its power, as compared with that wielded by it for years past, is practically broken. Moreover the independents of Pennsylvania have declared against the entire Cameron ticket. They have not approved part of it and accepted part of it. Hence their position is logical throughout, while that taken by the authors of the present address does not appear so. Every independent movement, to be really strong must be founded on sufficient cause.

San Francisco as well as Portland has felt the grip of a tug boat system which exists to plunder commerce rather than to serve it, and her merchants like our own have made declaration of independence. Articles of incorporation for the "ship owners and merchants' tug-boat company," just formed there were filed on the 18th inst. The directors are G. W. McNear, John Rontfield, H. L. E. Meyer, Robert Balfour, Andrew Crawford, A. Cheesbrough, A. Bannister, Samuel Blair and William Babcock; capital stock, $250,000; amount subscribed, $155,000. The purpose of the corporation is to engage in the business of towage, salvage and transportation on all the waters of the Pacific Coast or the United States, including inland waters and rivers flowing into the Pacific ocean or bays. All the large shipping houses of the city are represented on the stock books of the new company.

The Stockton Mail, noting recent diplomatic appointments, remarks that our whole foreign service is rather ornamental than useful. It says: "We have direct telegraphic communication with every country with which we are likely to have any business to transact, so that state department may meet state department face to face, through the mediumship of the electric wires. But the foreign service is something like the tariff; everybody who knows anything about it at all knows that it is 'nineteenths humbug, but still we are likely to have it with us for a long time to come. The only redeeming feature about it is that it makes room occasionally for a deserving journalist."

Ocean rates for grain by steam from New York to Liverpool are extremely low, ranging from 4 to 5d per bushel. At present the cost from Chicago to Liverpool is about 6½ cents per bushel. This is extraordinary. For the extremely low rate there are two causes; first, railroad competition, which in turn has forced lake and canal rates down, and second, the vast and increasing number of ocean steamers that want grain for ballast and take it at merely nominal rates. The figures show the extent of the advantage now enjoyed by the wheat growers of Minnesota, Iowa and other states whose market is Chicago, over the wheat growers of our Pacific states. It is not probable that the latter will ever be in so fortunate a position.

The president of the brewers' convention recently held at Washington declared that in Maine, where not a brewery is in operation, the percentage of arrests for drunkenness is greater than in states where beer is freely made and sold. He explained as a reason that where the sale of liquor is made a secret and forbidden traffic, fiery spirits are so much more conveniently handled and kept than beer, that the proportionate consumption of the milder drink is apt to be greatly diminished, and those who slyly tipple are apt to do it with drinks that quickly intoxicate. This of course, is a view of the case which might naturally be taken by a brewer of beer, but it is worth consideration.

It is estimated that last year the people of the United States consumed 238,000,000 bushels of wheat. This would make about four and two-thirds bushels per capita. The exportation reached 186,000,000 bushels. Of the annual wheat product of the world the United States now yields about one-third, or perhaps a little more. Ten years from now we shall produce a much larger portion of the whole, and shall send a much larger fraction of it abroad.

Grain movement down the Mississippi river continues very insignificant. New Orleans receipts have dwindled steadily. So far this year there is a decline of 70 per cent., as compared with last. The railroads absorb the business—another fact which goes to show that transportation upon the water courses as against railroads is a thing of the past. Wherever railroads can be built rivers are superseded as channels of commerce.

One of the most efficient members ever sent to the legislative assembly from this county is Hon. Sol Hirsch. Multnomah needs just such men to look after her mercantile and commercial interests. Having found Mr. Hirsch at all times ready and capable, the county will re-elect him. It is not politics alone that should be thought of, but the large interests of the city and county.

April earnings of the Northern Pacific railroad, just published, show that with 35 per cent. more road than in April of last year, the earnings are 102½ per cent. greater. The Central Pacific, with 13 per cent. more road, gained only 9.6 per cent. in earnings.

A New York item says: "The Cunard steamship line, which has a surplus and sinking fund of $1,500,000, made $800,000 last year, and divided only 3 per cent. on a capital of $8,000,000. They always put by money for a rainy day."

Canadian papers are clamoring for legislation prohibiting Chinese immigration. They fear, and justly, the danger of large Chinese settlements in British Columbia.

Rev. Mr. Henson who aired his notions on the press before the Baptist convention at New York yesterday, is a fool—just a plain fool.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 27, 1882.

CITY.

THE CASCADES DIVISION.—When the announcement was made in last Sunday's OREGONIAN, that the railroad from The Dalles to Bonneville was in operation, the most natural inquiry was, "When will the road reach Portland?" and this question is generally asked. In answer, it may be stated that the company are putting forth every effort to have the line finished into Albina by Oct. 1. The country is not so level as a parlor floor, and handling the surface not so easy as spading a potato patch. There are several miles of heavy rock cuts and no end of high embankments, to say nothing of sixty trestles, some of them very long. The status of the work yesterday was as follows: The grade from East Portland up Sullivan's gulch, thence to and across the Sandy, including all trestle work and bridges, is finished. Track laying will begin to-day. Twenty-five hundred men are at work on the division with satisfactory progress, except at one point. Below Bonneville for more than half a mile, there is a very heavy rock cut directly on the river bank, and work will necessarily be slow, because no large powder shots can be fired. Danger to life and property at Lower Cascades, forces the laborers to confine themselves to light blasts, and precludes the idea of pushing things.

LAND LEAGUE PICNIC.—To-morrow, the Portland branch of the Land League will hold their second annual picnic at City View Trotting Park. The steamer City of Salem will leave the foot of Alder street every hour, making the first trip at 9 A. M. Twenty prizes will be awarded to successful contestants in various events which are enumerated in the advertisement. At 3 P. M. there will be a horse race. Dancing may be indulged in at the new pavilion, which will be in charge of a careful committee.

CONNECTED BY RAIL.—The beautiful little suburb of Albina, which for years lay dormant, has, through the recent improvements by the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, sprung into prominence. Yesterday it was connected by rail with East Portland, and hereafter Albina will not be the least important of the many towns called from mere existence into a live life by railway development.

CORNER STONE LAYING.—Next Wednesday, May 31, at 2 P. M., the corner stone of the McMinnville college will be laid with appropriate ceremonies. Rev. R. C. Hill, of Albany will officiate as chaplain, Hon. J. N. Dolph will deliver the oration and Hon. W. Carey Johnson, of Oregon City, will place the stone in position. The McMinnville brass band and the Glee Club will furnish music for the occasion.

ARRIVING EARLY.—Since Sunday last, under the new railroad time card, the boats from Bonneville have arrived here between 1:15 and 1:30 P. M., and this time with slight variation, will be kept up during the summer. Passengers from The Dalles will be able to transact a half day's business in the afternoon, an hour's in the morning, and get home the same night.

IN COLVILLE VALLEY.—A letter to THE OREGONIAN from Fort Colville says that Mr. Frey and associates, representing the colony of Russian refugees, accompanied by Mr. Joseph Oppenheimer, of this city, have visited all portions of the Colville valley, even up to the little dalles. They express themselves pleased with the soil's fertility.

NAME CHANGED.—Since New Years, Wells, Fargo & Co. have had an agency at Ventnor, on the west shore of Lake Pend d'Oreille, the distributing point for the Pend d'Oreille country. It was recently moved to Sand Point, on the east shore. After June 1st the name of Ventnor will be abandoned and Sand Point substituted therefor.

TO VANCOUVER.—The ladies of St. Paul's guild, Oregon City, agreeable to expectations, have arranged a trip from that place to Vancouver on Tuesday, touching at the foot of Yamhill street at 9 o'clock, returning at 4 P. M. This will be the third annual excursion to Vancouver under the auspices of the same ladies.

SMALLPOX AND VACCINATION.—To-morrow evening, at Masonic hall, Dr. Keck will deliver a free lecture on the above subject. He claims to be able to prove that vaccination affords no protection against smallpox, but that it engenders various other diseases, many of which are not less dreadful than the great scourge itself.

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY MEETINGS.—The Seventh Day Adventists will meet to-day (Saturday) in [illegible] hall, East Portland, commencing with Sabbath school at 10:30 A. M. Sermon afterwards by [illegible] Sunshall, and on Sunday evening at 7:30 a [illegible]. Subject—"The Voice of History."

POSTPONEMENT.—In consequence of unfortunate circumstances, the new St. Stephen's chapel will not be opened until the day of its consecration on Thursday next, the 1st of June at 10 o'clock A. M. To-morrow (Whitsun day) services will be held as usual in the old chapel.

THE BURNED STEAMER.—The steamer Yaquina will be raised to-day and examined as to her fitness for [illegible]. If in such a condition as will admit of [illegible] she will be rebuilt, and the transfer made to the parties mentioned in our news from that city.

[illegible] TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.—Regular meeting this evening in their hall on Morrison street between Third and Fourth. Short addresses will be delivered by W. B. Smith and C. Sharp. A piano and violin duet will be rendered by two young gentlemen.

[illegible] FLOWERS.—Children going to Vancouver by the steamer Lurline are requested to bring flowers if they possibly can, so that they may participate in decorating the many graves at the military cemetery.

TO CLOSE AT 3 P. M.—Nearly all the wholesale stores and business offices have agreed to close at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, from to-day until August [illegible] to give employes an opportunity for physical recreation.

THE STATE'S CARGO.—The steamer State of California, which sailed yesterday, brings 145 cabin passengers, 312 in the steerage and 1279 tons of freight, [illegible] of which are for Astoria.

NEW MARKET THEATER.

The Standard Minstrels returned last night from a highly successful trip to The Dalles and Walla Walla, on which they played to the heaviest business ever done by any troupe, [illegible] visited either of these cities. Freeth was still unable to take his place in the circle, and [illegible] in wretched voice, so that all the weight of the vocalism in the first part fell upon Lawless and [illegible], the latter of whom sang two of his best [illegible]. Little Flora Walsh sang several new songs and danced her best jigs, and Reed's budget of conundrums set the audience in a roar. The ever-welcome sketch of "Muldoon's Pic Nic" was given and applauded as loudly as on the first night. Reed and [illegible] were outrageously funny in the scene with the [illegible], and the audience laughed themselves [illegible]. The piece will be repeated this afternoon and evening for the last time, together with the laughable negro extravaganza called "Nine Points of the Law," in which the Portland legal fraternity will be severely caricatured. The company leave for Puget Sound on Monday morning, and will leave for San Francisco from Victoria on the next trip of the Dakota.

BRIEF MENTION.

Minstrel matinee to-day.

Banks will close Decoration Day.

The Oregon sails for San Francisco to-night.

Last appearance of the minstrels to-night. See [illegible]'s great court scene.

A party of 50 officers and ladies from Vancouver will come over to-night by the Washington to attend the minstrel performance.

[illegible] Macleay have effected arrangements to [illegible] line by Sound steamers to New Tacoma, thence by rail and river here.

Hon. [illegible] Humphrey, the great Linn county wit, Hon. J. F. Caples and Mr. G. J. McDougall will address the young men's republican club at Turn Halle [illegible].

[illegible], the merchant tailor, 70 Morrison street, has received a new lot of goods. For the styles, consult [illegible], who stands at the front in the business.

A New Departure.—Gold Watches and Chains, Diamond Rings, and Guns and Pistols, can be bought of Uncle Myers on the installment plan, at 181 First street.

Drop in at G. Shindler & Co.'s furniture establishment and see some of the finest bedroom suits, without any exception," ever offered for sale in Portland.

Uncle Myers has just opened some of the finest optical goods in the state. Spectacles to suit all ages and sights.

One hundred packages of Household sewing machines, direct from the factory just received at Garrison's sewing machine store, 167 Third street. Sixth shipment of these popular sewing machines in less than six months.

AT INVENTORY PRICES.

[illegible] still remains of the Van Beurden stock a [illegible] assortment of diamonds, watches and jewelry, which will after this date be closed out at net [illegible] cost. Such an opportunity for first-class [illegible] was never before presented in Portland, and should not be neglected. A saving of 33 to 50 per [illegible] is not an every day occurrence, and this is no [illegible] sale.

BROWN'S BODY IDENTIFIED.

The Prosecution in the Case of Carrie Bradley Make Several Strong Points and Close their Testimony.

Fourth Day—Morning Session.

[illegible] was the usual large attendance at the [illegible] ing of court and the same interest taken by the audience in the proceedings. The prosecution [illegible] number of witnesses during the day [illegible]. The defense kept up a rigid cross-examination and at the request of Dolly Adams was recalled to the stand, [illegible] with the testimony of Mollie Flippen.

Proceedings.

The cross-examination of "Ace" Murray was taken up by Mr. Watson: "My real name is Asa E. Nisonger; have no family, am 25 years old, my last occupation was that of a plasterer; have never been convicted of a crime; on the night of the murder I was with Fay Cushing the whole evening; was with her in the back parlor when Carrie asked me to go for the chloroform; no one else was in the room when she sent me for the chloroform; did not think it anything remarkable for her to want the chloroform, as I have seen people use it for that purpose; have used it that way myself; cannot say whether Carrie came from the bed room or the front parlor when she [illegible] the chloroform; have been [illegible] days past, have had no talk with Mr. Caples or Mr. Mulkey about this case, except that Caples told me I would be wanted as a witness in this case; suppose I am in jail on some charge in connection with this affair, no promise has been made to me if I would testify in this case; have had a talk with Mr. Simmons about this case; no [illegible] has been made by Mr. Simmons about my testimony here."

Re-direct examination—"My family live here in this city; my mother's name is Mrs. Lawrence."

THE PIANO PLAYER'S STORY.

"Prof." [illegible] was sworn and testified: "[illegible] in this city; my occupation is that of a piano player; was at the house of Carrie Bradley on the night of the murder, went to the house that night at about 8 o'clock; Carrie Bradley was not there when I first arrived, but came afterwards with Dolly, Pete Sullivan and Brown; Carrie asked me to play lively tunes; Pete Sullivan danced around the room and they made Brown dance a little; the parties had several drinks; I was in the front room; in the same room where the parties were dancing and drinking; the parties sat down on the lounge, Brown in the middle, Pete on one side and Carrie on the other; Brown was 'tight' when he came in; don't know who took him out of the room; heard a noise but did not turn to look; don't remember what time I left the house, but it was about midnight; played there next night; did not play there Saturday night; went there as usual to play, but Carrie met me at the door and told me the girls were out and she did not want me to play that night."

Cross-examined by Mr. Mason—"So far as I know all drank that night, Carrie sat on the sofa with Brown and Pete about twenty minutes; drinks were brought out; Carrie left the room afterwards, but did not see her return; Dolly Adams was in the room; she did not sit on the sofa that I know of; it was not more than three-quarters of an hour after they all returned before Carrie left the room and did not return; the others remained in the room; did not see Carrie return until Brown was taken up stairs; could have seen her from where I sat if she had returned; did not see Carrie rubbing Brown's face while she sat on the sofa; did not see Sullivan waving a handkerchief; did not smell chloroform in the room; would have smelled it if it had been used; if Carrie went up with Brown I might have seen her and might not; did not think she was in the room at the time; remember only Mollie Moss and Fay coming back after Brown was taken out of the room; did not see Carrie have her arm around Brown's neck; it is usual for me to see Carrie before leaving; did not see her when I left that night; they did not carry Brown out; he appeared to be drunk."

By the Court—"It was an hour or an hour and a quarter after Brown came there before I missed him."

Re-direct—"There was nothing that night that caused me to notice Carrie Bradley particularly; was playing sheet music that night and that required my attention to the playing, and did not notice particularly what was going on in the room."

STRIPPING THE HOUSE.

Alfred Dangueger, sworn, testified: "Am a laundryman; know Carrie Bradley; do the laundry work for her; was at her house last of October on Thursday and Friday; went to Carrie's room that morning and detected a strong smell of ammonia, and asked Carrie if she had been trying to poison herself; she said the air was bad sometimes, and 'we use it to purify the room'; saw a bottle labeled 'Ammonia' and 'Child, Druggist.'"

CARRYING AWAY THE BODY.

G. W. Baker, sworn, testified: "Am a hack driver; know Carrie Bradley, Jack Mahone, Pete Sullivan and Charlie Hamilton. On Saturday night, the last of October, Jack Mahone took my hack and drove to Third street and stopped in front of Carrie Bradley's house, and some persons came out and put a trunk on the boot of the hack. The hack came back to me about 3:30 o'clock. It was about 2:30 o'clock when the hack drove away from Bradley's house."

THE HACK ON THE WHARF.

George Cunningham, sworn, testified: "Am now living at Beaverton; on the 28th of October, 1881, was a mill hand at Weidler's mill; Sunday morning was in the neighborhood of Nicolai's wharf at about 4 o'clock in the morning, and saw a hack standing at that wharf."

By the court: "Cannot tell exactly what day of the month this was; it was the last Sunday in October as near as I can tell."

Mr. Watson exhibited to witness the record of the coroner's inquest, in which it was shown that witness stated before the coroner that this was the 12th day of November when he saw the hack. Witness explained that they confused him at that time about dates, and after going home he studied it over and found he had made a mistake as to the date.

IDENTIFYING THE TRUNK.

John Barry, sworn, testified: "Am a blacksmith, recognize the trunk here as one I have seen in Carrie Bradley's house, on Third street; I put on a hinge and straightened the hasp of the lock at the instance of defendant, a little while before she removed from the house."

THE POISONS USED.

Dr. W. H. Watkins, sworn, testified: "Am a physician and surgeon; have followed that profession for about thirty years, and lived in this city about twenty years; have been accustomed to the use of morphine and chloroform in my practice; both are poisons and will produce death; under ordinary circumstances traces of morphine would remain for some time in a man's body; chloroform cannot be discovered after any length of time; a handkerchief saturated with chloroform and placed over the nostrils of a man, and a towel over that, might not necessarily produce death, as it would depend upon the quantity of chloroform and the condition of the man; the fact of a man being intoxicated would greatly increase the probabilities of death; the administration of chloroform and morphine would greatly increase the chances of producing death."

Cross-examined by Mr. Mason—"When a person first breathes chloroform he is apt to struggle a little; the amount of resistance would depend entirely on the person; it produces a feeling of suffocation, but some persons pass into the stupefied state without a struggle, while others make violent struggles; when the patient comes to that point where he would make no resistance he might talk and perform some acts; if spoken to in a sharp voice he might stretch out the hand, open the mouth, and even recognize persons and yet not be conscious of what he was doing. A post mortem examination would not discover the presence of chloroform, but under ordinary circumstances there might be a discovery of the presence of morphine. The quantity of morphine that would produce death varies. It has been known that two and a half grains has produced death. It would be rather remarkable if a person would die with three grains of morphine. A person after taking enough of morphine to prove fatal would live twelve, twenty-four or thirty-six hours. If he took eight or ten grains he might live ten or twelve hours. If in addition, chloroform was administered at every breath, the patient would die within an hour. There are other causes which would produce the same appearance at a post mortem examination as if the person were poisoned by morphine or chloroform. There is no resemblance between the appearance of the body of a person who died from apoplexy and one that died from the effects of chloroform or morphia. There are a number of causes of death which will produce similar effects as death by chloroform. Chronic alcoholism is a frequent cause of death. A number of large doses of brandy in the course of two hours will produce death in some cases."

Re-direct—"The amount of morphine which will produce death is very variable. Morphine is soluble in water and if a dead body had lain in the water for twenty-five or thirty days it is probable a post mortem examination would reveal no trace of the morphine. There would be no trace of chloroform."

By Mr. Mason—"Do not know that decomposition would not be hurried very much by the morphine in the body; could not very well tell in that length of time whether the death was produced by poison or other causes."

Court took a recess until half past one o'clock.

Afternoon Session.

Dr. W. H. Saylor, sworn, testified: "Am a practicing physician and surgeon; have resided in this city six years, and in practice of my profession for thirteen years; familiar with morphia and chloroform; these medicines are poison in certain cases; in ordinary cases it would take from two to three grains of morphine to produce death; a dose of medicine is from one-eighth to three-quarters of a grain; I never administer more than the latter quantity; it would take a less quantity of chloroform to produce death if the person had taken brandy or morphine, and was under the influence of the two other drugs; death by chloroform can be produced immediately; if given in small quantities it would take some length of time for a patient to die; if several handkerchiefs were saturated with chloroform and put over the nostrils and a towel over that and held there by the hand, it would depend upon the means of escape, but the person would not be likely to live more than 15 or 20 minutes."

TAKING AWAY THE DOG.

Tim Malley, sworn, testified: "I keep a saloon and hotel near the Red House on the macadamized road. Know Dolly Adams; she brought a dog for me to keep; there was another lady in the hack with Dolly at the time; I do not know Carrie Bradley; cannot say that the other woman was Carrie Bradley."

Here followed an immense amount of sparring between Messrs. Caples, Watson, Mulkey and Mason, about this dog. The defense objected to the testimony as irrelevant. The state in response said that it was their purpose to show that this dog cuts an important figure in this trial. He was a hunting, burrowing sort of a dog, and when that body was under the house, Carrie was afraid the dog would root around the body and it would be discovered.

According to the testimony of Dolly Adams, Carrie ordered the dog to be killed, or if not, for him to be taken away. After a good deal of wrangling over the dog, the witness was ordered to step aside, and Mrs. Garnold was called.

A CONNECTING LINK.

Mrs. E. Garnold, wife of Mr. John Garnold, was sworn and testified: "I lived at the morgue and saw the body of the man who was taken from the river. I was there most of the time. I know Dolly Adams when I see her."

Mr. Caples: "Did you show the body of this man to Dolly Adams?"

The Defense: "We object!"

The Court: "How is that material?"

Mr. Caples: "We propose to show that Dolly Adams came there and was shown the body of this man and the articles found with him and that after seeing them she returned to Bradley's house and told Carrie that there was a towel among them, that Carrie then burned up all her towels."

The court decided the matter as immaterial evidence.

EFFECTS OF THE POISONS.

Dr. W. B. Cardwell, sworn and testified: "Am a physician and surgeon; have been so in this city for 14 years; chloroform and morphine are both poisons; to a person unaccustomed to the use of morphine, one grain is sufficient to produce death; if a person was intoxicated it would require more of [illegible] person was under the influence of liquor and morphine the administering of chloroform would increase the [illegible] effects and would require less chloroform to produce fatal results."

Cross-examined: "Chloroform and morphine are [illegible]; an intoxicated person would require more morphine but less chloroform to produce stupor; a person may die from the inhalation of [illegible] in a few minutes; chloroform has been [illegible] for two hours continuously in cases of [illegible] operations; if applied too quickly it has a tendency to produce coughing; a person would come out from the influence in a half an hour if not under other narcotics; persons fully under the influence have no feeling; at first there is a stage of excitement which gradually relaxes; a chloroformed handkerchief within two or three inches of the nostrils might stupefy a person; as small as 15 or 20 drops has been known to produce insensibility; as high as three or four ounces I have used on some persons, ordinarily ½ ounce; if a person was asleep the effect would be intensified; it would not wake them up; would not think it safe to confine a chloroformed handkerchief over the nose closely. With [illegible] admitted with more or less air it is very dangerous; morphine will effect a person in from 10 to 15 minutes and death might ensue within a half an hour or an hour; the morphine stupor has been known to last 12 hours before death."

DOLLY ADAMS CONTRADICTS HERSELF.

Mr. Caples here rose and addressed the court, stating that Dolly Adams had notified him that there was a point in her testimony which she desired to correct. She had forgotten a point which she now remembered distinctly and wished to state it to the court and jury. On being brought up on the stand she said: "I said that Miss Carrie Bradley didn't use those brass knuckles; I was confused and I want to correct my testimony. She did use those knuckles. She said they just fit Charley Hamilton."

Cross-examined: "I had forgotten the circumstances about the brass knuckles, I was confused about my mind; she struck him in the breast with the knuckles; don't remember that I testified before the grand jury that she struck him in the face with the brass knuckles; know she did strike him, but not in the face; did not say before the grand jury that she stamped on him; said she jumped on to him and pounded him; my attention was not called to this matter by Mr. Simmons since I testified here yesterday; don't think I talked with Molly Flippen about this case since I testified, have spoken about the case, but not about my evidence; talked over what we saw in the paper, did not talk about the case except what was in the paper; can swear positively to that; Miss Carrie told me these knuckles were made by Charley Hamilton in her kitchen and made to fit him; don't know that his hand is smaller than Carrie's; don't know whether it is smaller or not; Sullivan was present when Carrie struck Brown with the knuckles; did not say before the grand jury that I never saw any knuckles at Carrie's."

THE WIRE AROUND THE FEET.

C. A. Smith, sworn and testified: "Reside at the corner of First and Salmon streets; am with Undertaker Garnold; was at the morgue when the man designated as Brown was brought there from the river; examined the body; saw scars on the body, one over each eye, one on crown of head; saw a wire around his feet, a towel and a broken strap; the man was six feet high, had on a white shirt, undershirt, a collar and black necktie; body was kept about three weeks at the morgue before doctors made a post mortem examination."

Cross-examined: "Don't know that the man's name was Brown."

PROVING HIS SIGNATURE.

H. W. Davis, sworn, testified: "Knew James N. Brown; saw him on the 24th of last October at my office; saw him again on the 25th; he filed a complaint against Dolly Adams, and also against this defendant for keeping a house of ill-fame; he was a man about six feet high; had two scars on forehead; would weigh 180 pounds; not over corpulent; slightly gray; gave his name as James Nelson Brown." [Introduced in evidence the two complaints, signed in his own hand, filed by Brown, and which were identified by witness.]

THE LAST SEEN OF BROWN BY HIS FRIENDS.

William Jackson, sworn and testified: "Live in Cowlitz county, W. T.; am a farmer; knew a man who called himself James N. Brown; there were marks on his forehead; knew him when he worked for a man named Robinson; saw him for two months; the last time I saw Brown was at the National hotel in this city between 6 and 7 o'clock on the 24th of October, 1881; three or four of us went to get lodgings; saw Brown; he shook hands with me; we went up to the bar and took a drink; this was on Wednesday evening; did not see Brown next day, but heard of him; was in the city until Saturday; Brown was in good health, strong and hearty."

KNEW HIS HAT.

L. S. Robinson, sworn and testified: "Reside at Rainier; am hotel keeper, knew James N. Brown on Cowlitz river, W. T.; he worked for me. I paid him $80 in money and $7 out of the store on the 20th of October, 1881, and saw him on the 24th coming to Portland; Brown worked for me in the woods felling trees and drove team; Brown was tall, over six feet, weight about 200 pounds, heavy muscle; took him to be about 45; his beard was silvery gray and he was bald on the top of his head; had scars on his head by which I could identify him; I could identify the hat because there was not many men who wore such a hat as he did." [A hat was shown and witness identified it as the one Brown wore on the steamer coming to Portland.]

The defense tried to shake the witness' positiveness in regard to the hat, but failed.

EXHUMING THE BODY.

John Garnold recalled: "The doctors held a post mortem on the man Brown about twenty days after he was brought to the morgue; he was buried the day after; I went out and examined the body and showed it to T. M. Winston and H. Williamson, about the 27th of last March."

Cross-examined—"The body had been called Andrews; one man present at the inquest said it was the body of John Andrews."

COMPLETE IDENTIFICATION.

T. R. Winston, sworn and testified: "Live in Lewis county, W. T., near Chehalis; am running a sash and door factory; knew James N. Brown; last saw him about the 30th day of last July; was working with him and eating at the same table for some time; he was working for me, logging; on the 27th of last March I went with Mr Garnold and he opened a grave which contained the body of Brown; am satisfied that the body was that of James N. Brown; there were two scars on his head, which I remembered."

"I COULD NOT BE MISTAKEN."

H. Williamson sworn, testified: "Worked last in Yakima county, W. T.; have worked for Mr. Winston in a logging camp nearly a year; am a logger; knew James N. Brown; slept with him, ate with him and worked with him for about a month and a half; saw him last alive at Winston's camp; could identify the scars on his face; saw a body on the 27th of last March, in the presence of Mr. Winston and Mr. Garnold, which I identified positively as the body of James N. Brown; I could not be mistaken."

The prosecution here rested.

TRYING TO IMPEACH A WITNESS.

Mollie Flippen was recalled, and examined by defense for the purpose of impeachment:

"Did you not say, in the evening of that day on which this matter was first published in the Telegram, in the presence of J. J. Hoffman and O. P. Mason, 'All I know about this affair of Brown is what Miss Carrie and Dolly Adams told me?'"

"No, sir."

"Did you not say in the presence of the piano player who played for you after Miss Carrie went away, 'She stole some things out of the house, —— her, and I'll get even with her.'"

"No, sir."

"Did you not tell a Mr. Misner, that one of your friends, who had $700, had been cut up in the kitchen of the Bradley house, and his body burned?"

"No, sir."

The defense then asked for an early adjournment, as they would not be ready to present their case before morning, which was granted, and the court adjourned until 9 o'clock this forenoon.

ENTIRE BLOCK BURNED.

The Square Surrounded by 2d, 3d, E & F Streets again in Ashes.

EAGLE HOTEL ALSO DESTROYED.

Most Destructive Fire Since the Conflagration on the same Spot, Sept. 22, 1879—Loss $72,000; Insurance less than $40,000.

At quarter past eight o'clock last night fire broke out in the planing mill of George H. Ainslie & Co. on Second street and destroyed every building on the block bounded by Second, Third, E and F streets, together with the Eagle hotel on the northeast corner of Second and E streets. It was an exact repetition of the fire on the same block, Sept. 22, 1879, except that the losses are about $10,000 more. There was some delay in turning in an alarm, as the person who tried to open box 13 at the Clarendon hotel got his key fastened. N. S. Mahoney finally broke the box and pulled down the key. In the meantime, No. One's were telephoned to from the Clarendon and were first to reach the fire and to throw water. In less than ten minutes from the time the blaze was first discovered, the entire block was in flames, and efforts of the department were directed towards saving adjoining property.

There was situate on the block the following buildings: On Second street Ainslie & Co.'s planing mill, about 100 feet square, and an L occupied by Nicolai & Davidson, on E street, a three-story brick block, 100 feet front and 50 feet deep, the eastern half occupied by Wm. Dreck as a machine shop, and the western half as an addition to the Minnesota house, on the corner of Third and E, the Minnesota house, 50 by 75 feet, two stories high; on Third street, Ainslie & Co's two-story brick store, filled with paints, oils, sash, etc., and a lumber shed; on F street, R. Robinson's carpenter shop, and a Chinese wash house. The Minnesota house and half of the three-story brick were built by Charles Cardinell, but had been recently sold to W. K. Smith and Geo. Woodard. The other half of the brick was owned by Adolph Nicolai and C. C. Phillips. The Eagle hotel was bought last year by Capt. J. C. Ainsworth and R. R. Thompson.

There was some delay by two of the companies, who had to station the engines on the F street pontoon and take water from the river, but the department did very good service, and Chief Engineer Hart is entitled to credit for the manner in which he handled his first big fire. A stream was at first directed into the Minnesota house, but the fire had too great a start, and the best that could be done was to save the buildings on the opposite corner. No. Ones effectively protected Nicolai & Bros.' planing mill, with the assistance of Twos, who also played on the Eagle hotel. Fives, who responded to the second alarm, played on the cornice of the Burton house until the building was out of danger, and then sent a fine stream into the Eagle hotel. Fours tried to do their best to protect the row on First street adjoining the Eagle, but with 70 pounds of steam, the engine could not throw water more than 40 feet. A pessimist remarked, perhaps wisely, that the city would save money if they would direct the machine to be backed into the Willamette from the pontoon. Couch Company was on hand promptly and did effective work with Threes, at the corner of Third and E.

The fire illuminated the country for miles about. The people of Oregon City supposed the whole town to be burning and frequently made inquiries by telephone as to the progress of the flames. Half the population of Portland turned out and many stayed about the block till past midnight. The front and rear walls of the three story brick fell about ten o'clock with a tremendous crash, sending up huge columns of sparks.

THE LOSSES

Are as follows:

Ainslie & Co., on planing mill, machinery, lumber, sash, doors and other stock, $20,000; insurance, $4000. It was reported that his partner, C. C. Phillips, has his interest insured, but it was impossible to learn the facts.

Same firm, brick building on Third street, $6000; insurance, $4000.

Adolph Nicolai and C. C. Philips, three-story brick, $6000; partially insured.

W. K. Smith and Geo. Woodard, Minnesota house and addition, $12,000; insurance, $8500.

J. C. Ainsworth and R. R. Thompson, Eagle hotel, $14,000; insurance, $10,000.

Nicolai & Davidson, planing mill, $1500; insurance, $1000.

E. Lowiston, lessee of Minnesota house, $3000; covered by insurance.

James Thomas, lessee of Eagle hotel, $3000; insurance, $1500.

Wm. Dreck, machinist, loss $6000 to $8000; partially insured.

R. Robinson, carpenter shop, $1000; no insurance.

Tung Sing, washhouse, $500; no insurance.

L. Permin, saloonkeeper, Eagle hotel, $250, insured.

There were 122 guests at the Minnesota, many of whom lost their effects, as did also several guests of the Eagle hotel.

A number of mechanics in the mill lost their tools. Some of the kits were worth over $100 each.

THE FIRE ORIGINATED

Among shavings near the boiler in the planing mill. It was seen in its incipiency by Michael McCarty, a longshoreman, who tried to extinguish it with buckets of water, and had it once almost under control. He and two others broke into the office, rolled out the safe and saved books and papers.

The night was perfectly still. With wind from the south, the Burton house and Clarendon hotel must have gone, and had a breeze prevailed in the north there is no telling where the fire would have stopped.

NOTES.

A guest of the Eagle hotel rushed up stairs for his baggage, and after he had recovered it, found egress by the stairs cut off by flames. He went to a window on E street and shouted for assistance. Martin Coleman, a sailor, carried a heavy plank from Nicolai's yard and elevated it ladder fashion. The man slid down face upward, but went off without thanking Mr. Coleman. He was angry because there were large splinters in the board. (P. S. This is a for sure Portland occurrence, not one of Bob Slavin's jokes.)

No. Two's new engine was out of service, but the reserve machine did capitally.

Ainslie & Company had contracts for $31,000 worth of sash, doors, etc., for buildings under construction, notably, the First National bank block and Capt. Flanders' residence, which now will be somewhat delayed.

A cabinet making establishment had recently moved into one of the buildings near the fire. Several of the boys showed grim humor by using coffins which they took from the factory, as ulsters to protect them while holding the nozzle.

It was reported that a man rushed into the planing mill to rescue his tool chest and did not emerge. The report lacks confirmation.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 27, 1882.

INDEPENDENT ADDRESS.

The Citizens' Republican Club of Multnomah County to the Republican Voters of Multnomah County, Oregon.

We would respectfully call your attention to the following statement of facts and declaration of principles;

All political life and activity in popular forms of government has, or ought to have, the public welfare for its aim and object. To this end citizens, actuated by common principles in regard to the policy of the government, group themselves in parties. These parties are voluntary organizations, and depend for their strength on the free assent of the people. Parties are not the ends, but the means to attain ends.

It is the universal experience of all commonwealths, during all times, that the control of the affairs of government for a long term of years by any political party engenders corruption and is the fruitful source of the formation of so-called rings of designing men who will use such party organization for personal and selfish ends and in this manner corrupt the public service and undermine free institutions.

The republican party, supported for more than a quarter of a century by the patriotism, the intelligence and the better judgment of the nation, having accomplished its original mission, is in imminent danger of becoming a mere machine in the hands of selfish, corrupt and unscrupulous politicians, who are endeavoring to stifle the voice of the people, subvert our liberty, and inaugurate a system of oriental vassalage, where preferment, honors and patronage are distributed in accordance with servile loyalty and adherence to self-constituted political bosses.

For more than ten years the progressive, independent and better element of the republican party, an element that has, does and in the future will shape the political destiny of our nation, has battled against this rising corruption and usurpation of the people's prerogatives. It demands in earnest and unmistakable language the reform in the civil service so absolutely necessary to the maintenance of our free institutions. It gave us the successful administration of Mr. Hayes, with its exposure of rings and the purification of the public service. It secured the nomination of Mr. Garfield in spite of the violent and persistent efforts of the prætorian guards to carry official booty to the tents of their captains and lieutenants, and in the election of Garfield, the sturdy representative of reform, inaugurated an era of hope and confidence. These hopes were stricken down by the assassin's bullet. The reins of government fell into the hands of representatives and adherents of boss rule. The hydra of political corruption and ring-power boldly and defiantly again lifts its head. Blind loyalty and submission to rings and self-appointed leaders has become the test of republicanism. The caucus of the ring domineers over primaries and conventions. Public opinion is smothered. A free press is tampered with, and trade, industry and commerce are cowed into subjection by threats. If such conditions continue, our free institutions will soon exist only in name, and violent disorders, anarchy, and a strong, centralized imperial government will mark the successive, natural and inevitable phases of the future of our national existence. No republican form of government can stand unless the national policy and the men selected to perform the public service are the direct result of a sound, free, uncontrolled and unsullied public opinion that finds expression in primaries and conventions.

These political rings and bosses, conscious of the fact that they are not supported by an untrammeled, unperverted public sentiment, and that in the ordinary course of events they can only hope for a brief enjoyment of power, will shrink from no wrongful, desperate measures in order to maintain their supremacy, and to perpetuate themselves in power. The danger to our freedom is great. The apathy and indifference of the masses make it worse. Let the fate of ancient republics be a warning to us. Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

In our county and state, also, the accidental acquisition of power by the chiefs and managers of the boss system in politics has been instrumental in vitalizing and vivifying into new, luxuriant, life the germs of political corruption. A few men in caucus have arrogated to themselves your rights, have traded and trafficked upon your suffrage, have selected delegates and packed conventions in their interest, and now ask you to ratify their proceedings at the polls. Your choice and your voice were ignored. Primaries and conventions have become a mere farce. These self-constituted managers rely for their success on your loyalty to party, on your established political habits, on the want of organized opposition within the republican ranks, on party discipline, on threats of political excommunication, and that you will lose a seat in the United States senate, on promises of reward, and last but not least, on the use of money to influence the coming election. They appeal to the baser qualities of the voter. Shall they succeed?

Alarmed at the impending danger to the party and to the nation, the liberal and independent republicans are organizing themselves simultaneously all over the union, and especially where the boss rule is severest, to break this ignominious yoke, to maintain the party in its original purity of principle, purpose and conduct, and if that cannot be effected, to insure its well-deserved defeat.

The independent republicans of Multnomah county have associated themselves and formed an organization for this purpose. The immediate object of this organization is to defeat the schemes and designs of a few local ring men who are endeavoring to thwart the people's will at the next election, but we shall keep up this organization as long as circumstances demand it. A convention of delegates from the various precincts was called to meet, consult together and take the proper steps to secure speedy and thorough reform. As the first good fruit of this movement we have the result: that the democratic party was induced to place in the field candidates who upon the whole are not owned by any man or set of men, and in regard to integrity and ability are well worthy of the support of their fellow citizens.

The independent convention met and concluded to put a full ticket in the field. It was deemed best to select candidates from both regular party tickets. It was the best measure under the circumstances. Let the independent voter choose for himself the candidates he prefers. The convention assumed no right to dictate or prescribe, but in order to be effective it is necessary that we should have concert of action. We make no personal warfare on any candidate except in so far as he is tainted with the suspicion of being a willing tool in the hands of the ring.

To this undertaking, of checking the growing, pernicious influence in our politics, we invite the hearty co-operation of all good and true citizens without regard to former party affiliation. Let the bold attempt to subject this county to the control of a few schemers be stamped out completely. Guard the purity of elections as your sacred inheritance. Let every offender who resorts to the purchase of votes, to bribery, fraud and intimidation be brought to speedy justice in the courts of law or at the bar of public opinion. Bear in mind that reform, as well as charity, must begin at home.

Do not be frightened by the bugbear that by your revolt the republicans will lose a seat in the United States senate. That is the trump card of the ring, with which they expect to win the game. If such an event takes place, let the responsibility therefor fall on them, and not on the independent republican voters, on whom they have forced such an alternative. They have taken the initiative, and they are jeopardizing the success of the party. Furthermore, the success of these self-appointed party managers would not result in the election of a senator by the free choice of a free people, but in the appointment of some one in the interest and under the control of the ring. Republican success is neither necessary nor desirable unless that party continues its march of progress. Everything for which that grand old party was originally organized, the abolition of slavery, the maintenance of the union, the equality of all men before the law, &c. &c. is accomplished and dare not be questioned or disturbed by any party for generations to come. The old issues that until recently divided the people are dead and only serve as a cover for the political carrion beetle to burrow in darkness and corruption. New problems of vital importance to the people loom up on the political horizon and imperatively demand attention. The existing parties must soon define their positions as to these questions or dissolve in the formation of new parties.

Defeats of the republican party in so called off years have of late been instrumental in cleansing and purifying it. From them the party has returned to the main contest and with renewed vigor achieved success. Defeat is the only thing that will save it now. Success or even partial success of the stalwart rings will make them more arrogant, bold, defiant and reckless than ever. Then the doom of the party will be fixed. Boss reign will strengthen its hold on the public service and in two years from now lead its prætorian guards into the national republican convention and dictate its candidates and policy. That will mean defeat and annihilation of the party. If, however, the independent republican voters are awake, if they perceive and understand now their full duty towards their party and their country, they will rather submit to temporary defeat and frustrate the dangerous schemes and designs of arbitrary ring rule and in this way bring the progressive patriotic element to the front, purify the party, shape its policy and again put it in the van where it naturally belongs and inaugurate a new era of victories, with new questions on new fields. The coming election is of great importance at home and abroad. Proclaim in loud and clear tones that you have not and will not yet abdicate in favor of a few bosses. Do your duty as citizens and republicans, intelligently, bravely and manfully, and the morning of the sixth of June next will dawn on a glorious victory by and for the people.

H. F. SUKSDORF,
F. E. BEACH,

General Crop Reports.

ST. PAUL, May 26.—Dispatches from points on all railroads report weather clear and warm. Wheat is growing finely and corn planting, checked by the cold spell, is resumed and will soon be finished. The greatest fear is for corn planted before the cold rains. Wheat, it is feared, has in some cases rotted in the ground. Reports from Southern Minnesota and Western Wisconsin, where fruit is grown, express fear that the most of it is killed.

"WOMEN NEVER THINK."

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best, and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.—Picayune.
